

Dear Friends and Family:

If you knew how to help a family deal with the long challenges that come with caring for a critically ill child, would you? Most of us would jump at the opportunity to show our support to these families – we just don't know where the needs are or how to address those needs. Worse yet, we don't know which organizations to trust with our hard earned donations and limited volunteer time.

I just learned about the TNK Children's Foundation, a non-profit organization that understands the challenges these families face; they know where the needs are and how to address them.

The needs are greatest as the child is fully dependent on a family caregiver and the family caregiver has other children and a job to maintain to keep their house, pay the bills etc... The reality for many care giving families is that they become financially strapped, isolated and overwhelmed. TNK Children's Foundation has developed a program to address these challenges through engaging, equipping, and training community members to help.

These children are our future. The responsibility for them to become productive members of society fall on the families. However the family is now face life-long financial, emotional, and logistical challenges related to devastating sickness. Please visit TNK Children's Foundation website at www.HuggedandKissed.org to learn more about the many ways you can get involved and show your support for these families whose lives have been forever changed. Let's show them that we can provide them with a solid foundation of support while it seems their world is crumbling around them

Sincerely,
